

This winter's gaiety will culminate tonight with the much-talked-of Bal Masque, which will be held in Horticultural Hall with all its accompanying decorations and gay throng of dancers.

A number of novelties have been arranged as surprises for the guests, who will be very many. There will be society folk from New York, Boston, Baltimore, Washington and most of the other large cities, for staid old Philadelphia has gained a place in the front ranks for Mardi Gras celebrations in the form of this annual Bal Masque, which had its origin at the Roosevelt several years ago, and which has grown in proportions each succeeding year.

The committee in charge of the affair includes E. Spencer Blight, Walter Douglass, Jr., Mrs. Stevenson Easty, Edward S. Grant, Quincey Adams Gillmore, Edward Hopkins, Jr., J. Howard Rhoads and Joseph Parker Norris, Jr.

The decorations will be under the supervision of Edward S. Grant, who is an expert on such subjects.

The ball will start at 10 o'clock and will be preceded by a more than usually large number of diners.

The little debutantes will be quite in the background tonight for, with very few exceptions, the guests are selected from those who have had their first winter and the younger married set.

The patronesses this year will include Mrs. Alexander Williams Biddle, Mrs. A. J. Drexel Biddle, Mrs. Theodore W. Read, Mrs. Charles R. Wright, Mrs. Daniel L. Hutchinson, Mrs. Eli Kirk Price, Mrs. Robert Kelso Cassatt, Mrs. James Francis Sullivan, Mrs. Charles B. McMichael, Mrs. Joseph Parker Norris, Jr., Mrs. Quincey Adams Gillmore, Mrs. J.
